Duties: You will serve as an engineering technical consultant (or trainee/intern at the GS-5/7/9 levels receiving technical direction from project engineer) providing guidance and direction to Division and project personnel for electronics equipment and systems, for example, Test Program Set (TPS) development/testability issues and/or other technical requirements related to automated testing and program development. Apply a high degree of professional knowledge, technical judgment, originality and resourcefulness, gained through education and experience in providing Test Program Set (TPS) programming/testing support and guidance to meet overall project objectives. Apply knowledge of various program languages as well as knowledge of computer, electrical, and electronic engineering disciplines and related basic computer and engineering sciences in performing TPS design/testing and TPS development tasks, many of which involve highly difficult testability/programming issues.

About the Position: Tobyhanna Army Depot is the largest, full-service electronics maintenance facility in the Department of Defense with a total installation work force of more than 4,400. The depot's mission includes design, manufacture, repair and overhaul of hundreds of electronic systems for all branches of the Armed Forces. They include satellite terminals, radio and radar systems, secure communications, electro-optics, night vision and anti-intrusion devices, airborne surveillance equipment, navigational instruments, electronic warfare, and guidance and control systems for tactical missiles. For over 50 years, Tobyhanna personnel have built a tradition of unparalleled customer satisfaction through the delivery of timely, cost-effective, and high-quality products and services. Located in Northeastern Pennsylvania, near Stroudsburg, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, the depot is readily accessible to major East Coast cities, interstate highways, railways, international airports, colleges and universities.
